Q.1) Ans: C

Exp:

- Statement 1 is incorrect: In case of a conflict between the Central law and the state law on a subject enumerated in the Concurrent List, the Central law prevails over the state law. But there is an exception. If the state law has been reserved for the consideration of the president and has received his assent, then the state law prevails in that state. But it would still be competent for the Parliament to override such a law by subsequently making a law on the same matter.
- Statement 2 is correct: The Constitution expressly secures the predominance of the Union List over the State List and the Concurrent List and that of the Concurrent List over the State List. Thus, in case of overlapping between the Union List and the State List, the former should prevail. In case of overlapping between the Union List and the Concurrent List, it is again the former which should prevail. Where there is a conflict between the Concurrent List and the State List, it is the former that should prevail.
- Statement 3 is incorrect: The bills on certain matters (and not all matters) in the State List can be introduced in the State Legislature only with the previous sanction of the President (For example bills imposing restriction on freedom of trade & commerce)

Q.2) Ans: C

Exp:

The Constitution provides for inter-government delegation of executive functions in order to mitigate rigidity and avoid a situation of deadlock.

- Statement 1 is incorrect: Accordingly, the President may, with the consent of the state government, entrust to that government any of the executive functions of the Centre.
- The Constitution also makes a provision for the entrustment of the executive functions of the Centre to a state without the consent of that state. But, in this case, the delegation is by the Parliament and not by the president.
- Statement 2 is correct: Indian federal system is based on Canadian model with strong centre. For e.g. union List contains more subjects than state list.

Q.3) Ans: D

Exp:

- Statement 1 is incorrect: The President may, with the consent of the state government, entrust to that government any of the executive functions of the Centre.
- Statement 2 is incorrect: Conversely, the governor of a state may, with the consent of the Central government, entrust to that government any of the executive functions of the state

Q.4) Ans: B

Exp:

- Statement 1 is correct: The motion of removal of the Speaker of Lok Sabha can be considered and discussed only when it has the support of at least 50 members.
- Statement 2 is correct: As per Article 94 of constitution He can be removed only by a resolution passed by the Lok Sabha by an Effective majority (i.e, a majority of the total members of the House present and voting minus vacancies).
- Statement 3 is incorrect: He can speak and take part in the proceedings of the House while the resolution of his removal is in consideration and he can also vote at first instant.

Q.5) Ans: C

Exp:

- Statement 1 is correct: Under the Rules of Lok Sabha, the Speaker nominates from amongst the members a panel of not more than ten chairpersons.
- Statement 2 is incorrect: There is no head of the panel of the chairpersons, any of them can preside over the House in the absence of the Speaker or the Deputy Speaker.
- Statement 3 is correct: The member of the panel of chairpersons cannot preside over the House if the office of the Speaker or Deputy Speaker is vacant. Hence members of the panel of the chairpersons can only preside over the House in the absence of the Speaker or Deputy Speaker and not when the office is vacant.
- Statement 4 is correct: When the office of the Speaker or the Deputy speaker is vacant, during such times, the Speaker's duty duties are to be performed by such members of the House as the President may appoint for the purpose.

Q.6) Ans: C

Exp:

- Statement 1 is incorrect: Adjournment motion does not terminate session of house it only suspends the work in the sitting of house for a specific time, which can be hours, days or week. On other hand Adjournment sine die terminates a sitting of house for an infinite period.
- Statement 2 is correct: The maximum gap between two sessions of Parliament cannot be more than six months. In other words, the Parliament should meet twice a year.
- Statement 3 is correct: Prorogation not only terminates a sitting but also a session of the House. The presiding officer (Speaker or Chairman) declares the House adjourned sine die, when the business of the session is completed. Within the next few days the President issues the notification for prorogation of the session. President can also prorogue the house while in session.
- Statement 4 is incorrect: The presiding officer of the House (Speaker) passes the adjournment motion and not President. The President issues the notification for prorogation of the session.

- Statement 1 is correct: As per the Constitution of India, a person holding any office of profit under the Union or the State except the minister or any office exempted by the state legislature is disqualified from being appointed as a member of the legislative assembly or the council.
- Statement 2 is incorrect: This disqualification is mentioned in the Representation of People Act, 1951 and not in the Constitution. A member may be disqualified from the seat of assembly or council, if he is dismissed from the Government service on the grounds of corruption. Governor of the state in consultation with the Election Commission decides whether a member stands disqualified on the grounds of RPA, 1951.
- Statement 3 is correct: The Constitution lays down disqualification of members on the grounds of defection under the Tenth Schedule of the Constitution. The Speaker of the Assembly and the Chairman of the Council is the final authority in deciding disqualification on these grounds.
- Statement 4 is incorrect: Guilty of electoral offences or corrupt practices in election are mentioned in the Representation of People Act, 1951 and not the Constitution of India.

- Statement 2 is incorrect: Speaker supervises over the functioning of all the committees of the House. He is the Chairman of the Business Advisory Committee, Rules Committee, and the General-Purpose Committee. He does not chair the House Committee.
- Statement 3 is incorrect: It is not necessary in the Indian context for the Speaker to cease the membership of the Party from which he got elected to the House on being appointed as a Speaker. However, the office of Speaker is non-partisan and he votes only in case of a tie.

Q.55) Ans: B

Exp:

- Statement 1 is correct: In case of matters regarding the enlargement of the jurisdiction of the State Public Service Commission, the Council enjoys equal powers with the State Legislative Assembly.
- Statement 2 is incorrect: In case the Constitutional Amendment seeks to amend the federal provisions of the Constitution, it requires ratification by half of the state legislatures with a simple majority. The Council does not have much role to play here, it is the will of the assembly that prevails.
- Statement 3 is correct: There is no provision of joint sitting in case of disagreement between the two houses of the state legislature. The council has only a dilatory role here. It can delay the passage of the bill for three months in the first instance and for one month in the second instance. Ultimately, it is the will of the Assembly that prevails.
- Statement 4 is correct: The legislative council can only discuss budget but cannot vote on demand for grants. Even in case of ordinary bill final power of passing the bill lies with the assembly. Council can delay the bill maximum by four months.

Q.56) Ans: B

- Statement 1 is correct: After the British annexation of Assam in 1826, surveys of the vast lands of the state began. On the basis of such surveys, the British began to impose land taxes, much to the resentment of the farmers. In 1893, the British government decided to increase agricultural land tax reportedly by 70- 80 per cent. "Up until then the peasants would pay taxes in kind or provide a service in lieu of cash.
- Statement 2 is incorrect: This uprising took place in Assam.
- Statement 3 is correct: Across Assam, peasants began protesting the move by organising Rajimels, or peaceful peoples' conventions." According to Guwahati-based author Arup Kumar Dutta, who has written a book — Pothorughat — on the incident, despite these gatherings being democratic, the British perceived them as “breeding grounds for sedition”. “So whenever there was a Raji Mel, the British used to come down on it with a heavy hand to disperse them,” he said.

NEWS: Patharughat peasant uprising took place on January 28, 1894 in Assam.

Build-Operate-Lease-Transfer (BOLT): In this approach, the government gives a concession to a private entity to build a facility (and possibly design it as well), own the facility, lease the facility to the public sector and then at the end of the lease period transfer the ownership of the facility to the government.

- Pair 1 is incorrectly matched: Lease-Develop-Operate (LDO): Here, the government or the public sector entity retains ownership of the newly created infrastructure facility and receives payments in terms of a lease agreement with the private promoter. This approach is mostly followed in the development of airport facilities.
- Pair 2 is incorrectly matched: Rehabilitate-Operate-Transfer (ROT): Under this approach, the governments/local bodies allow private promoters to rehabilitate and operate a facility during a concession period. After the concession period, the project is transferred back to governments/local bodies.
- Pair 3 is correctly matched: DBFO (Design, Build, Finance and Operate): In this model, the private party assumes the entire responsibility for the design, construction, finance, and operate the project for the period of concession.
