- Tantiya Tope was a general in the Indian Rebellion of 1857 and one of its notable leaders. Despite lacking formal military training, Tantiya Tope is widely considered as the best and most effective rebel general.
 - Tantiya took on the title Tope, meaning commanding officer. His first name Tantiya means General. A personal adherent of Nana Saheb of Bithur, he progressed with the Gwalior contingent after the British reoccupied Kanpur (then known as Cawnpore) and forced General Windham to retreat from the city.
 - Later on, Tantiya Tope came to the relief of Rani Lakshmibai of Jhansi and with her seized the city of Gwalior. However, he was defeated by General Napier's British Indian troops at Ranod and after a further defeat at Sikar, he abandoned the campaign. Tope then escaped alone into the jungles where he met Man Singh, Raja of Narwar, and his household and decided to stay with at his court. Man Singh was in dispute with the Maharaja of Gwalior while the British were successful in negotiating with him to hand Tope to them in return for his life and protection of his family from any reprisals by the Maharaja. After this event, Tope was handed to the British and left to face his fate at the hand of the British.

The formation of Indian National Congress in 1885 was a watershed movement in this direction and gave an organizational structure to the freedom Movement. The congress was initially dominated by the Moderates consisting of W. C. Bannerjee, Dadabhai Naorji, Surendranath Bannerjee, etc. who advocated to attain their aims through prayers, petitions, persuasion, and reforms in the legislative assemblies by way of constitutional reforms. This method was found to be useless by the emergent extremist forces led by Lala Lajpat Rai, Bal Gangadhar Tilak, Bipin Chandra Pal, etc. They demanded self-rule or swaraj and applied low grade pressure at the authorities. However, post the surat split in 1907 due to the differences between the Moderates and the Extremists, there emerged the tide of revolutionary activists who believed in the methods of western violence in the lines of Russian nihilists and Irish nationalists. Their activities were based on individual heroic actions and the use of the bombs and revolver.

The aim of the plan was to carry out the mobilization of the Indians abroad and in India with the aim to challenge and organize an armed invasion for the liberation of the country.
- Statement 2 is incorrect: The Indian revolutionaries present in Europe sent missions to several countries like in Baghdad, Persia, Turkey, Kabul with the aim to incite the people with the Indian cause and work with the Indian troops and Prisoners of War. One such mission was sent to Kabul under Raja Mahendra Pratap Singh. It organized a provisional Indian government with the help of the prince of Kabul.

Q.34) Ans: C

Q.31) Ans: B

Exp:

- Option B is correct: The formation of Indian National Congress gave an organizational structure to the Indian Freedom struggle. The Congress underwent significant changes over time in its demands and programmes for the attainment of Independence. These include:
 - Constitutional concessions which was the characteristic of the earliest congress leaders that led the moderate phase of the movement. They were involved in the politics of prayers, petitions, and protests to achieve constitutional reforms.
 - The next phase was the Demand for Swaraj in 1906 post the partition of Bengal and the coming into scene of the Extremists, who had no faith in the methods of the Moderates and demand self-rule or swaraj.
 - With the coming into the scene of Gandhi, nationalism reached to the grassroot level. From a narrow domain of some urban elite and middle classes, it reached the lower classes comprising the peasantry as is evident in the Non-Cooperation, Civil Disobedience, and the Quit India Movements.
 - The Demand for Poorna Swaraj emerged immediately before the start of the Civil disobedience movement at the Lahore session in 1929. Complete independence was now the aim of the congress.
 - The Karachi session of the Congress in 1931 was instrumental in ushering in socialist reforms by extending the idea of Fundamental rights and duties and the Economic programme.
 - Hence, the correct order is Constitutional concessions; demand for swaraj; mass nationalism; demand for poorna swaraj; fundamental rights.

Exp:

- Statement 1 is correct: Gandhi's idea of Satyagraha and non-violence provided an alternative to the revolutionaries who saw a new hope. His idea of revolt involved active participation of the masses and touched every section of the Indian society.
- Statement 2 is incorrect: The Morley Minto reforms referred to the Government of India Act, 1909 which came much before the end of world war I. However, it was Montagu's statement in 1917 which talked of Swaraj and the Montagu Chelmsford reforms or the Government of India Act, 1919 that calmed the revolutionary activity to a certain extent.
- Statement 3 is incorrect: The Khilafat issue arose post the end of the World War I after the Treaty of Sevres completely dismembered Turkey, which was the seat of Khalifa, recognized by all the Muslims throughout the world. This had no role in the decline of revolutionary activism.
- Statement 4 is correct: The release of the political prisoners arrested because of the provisions of the Defense of India Act, 1915 also calmed the atmosphere to a great extent and suppressed the revolutionary activities.
- Statement 5 is incorrect: There were numerous mutinies witnessed at several places during the revolutionary activism. One such important mutiny was the Singapore mutiny under the Jamadar Chisti Khan, Jamadar Abdul Ghani, and Subedar Daud Khan. They were a part of revolutionary activism and were in no way related to its decline.

Exp:

- Statement 1 is incorrect: With the outbreak of the first World War, different responses were witnessed among the different sections of the nationalist. The moderates supported Britain in war. The Extremists supported under the false belief that their support would be rewarded with the grant of Swaraj post the war, and the revolutionaries saw it as an opportunity to challenge the already occupied Britain for the liberation of the country.

- Statement 2 is incorrect: The idea of the Home rule league was to have an alliance that worked throughout the year for the cause of Swaraj. It involved Bal Gangadhar Tilak, Annie Beasant, G. S. Khaparde, S. Subramania Iyer, Joseph Baptista and Mohammad Ali Jinnah. It was to be formed on the lines of the Irish Home Rule League. Hence, two Home Rule Leagues came into existence in 1916 under Tilak (Central Provinces, Berar, Karnataka, Maharashtra except Bombay) and Annie Beasant (rest of India including Bombay). The Singapore mutiny occurred in 1915 and hence the two events neither coincided nor were related.

- Option B is correct: The above paragraph refers to Dadabhai Naoroji. He was regarded as the Grand Old Man of India and was associated with the Indian National Congress since its inception. He served as the Second president of the Congress. He was thrice elected as the president of the Congress and presided over the Calcutta session in 1906 when the word swaraj was referred to for the first time. On the social front he led to the formation of the Dnyan Prasarak Mandali and Girls High school in Bombay. He was the first Indian to be elected to the House of Commons on the ticket of the Labour party. He did a great deal in forming the public opinion in Britain on the issues of India by forming the London Indian Association and the East Indian Association. He played an important role in exposing the exploitative economic policy of British towards India through his book "Poverty and un-British Rule in India" and by giving Drain theory regarding the British Economic exploitation of India.

- Options 1 is correct and 2 is incorrect:
 - The most immediate outcome of war was a phenomenal increase in defence expenditure, which instead of being cut back, kept on rising even after 1919. The result was a huge national debt, which rose by more than Rs. 3 million between 1914 and 1923. This meant heavy war loans and rising taxes and since land revenue had been settled and could not be immediately enhanced, there was more indirect taxation on trade and industry. There were higher customs duties, an income tax, super tax on companies and undivided Hindu business families, excess profit tax and so on.
- Options 3 is correct:
 - Ultimately the burden of this new taxation fell on the common people, as it resulted in a phenomenal price rise. According to official calculations, the price index on an all-India level rose from 147 in 1914 to 281 in 1920 (1873 as the base year)." This unprecedented price rise was partly due to indirect taxes, partly due to transport and other economic dislocations.

About the G7

- The Group of 7 (G7) is an informal group of seven countries — the United States, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Japan and the United Kingdom, the heads of which hold an annual summit with the European Union and other invitees. Together the member countries represent 40% of global GDP and 10% of the world's population. Unlike other bodies such as NATO, the G7 has no legal existence, permanent secretariat or official members.
- It also has no binding impact on policy and all decisions and commitments made at G7 meetings need to be ratified independently by governing bodies of member states.
- The presidency of G7 meetings is held by each of the seven countries in turn, each year. The country holding the presidency is responsible for organising and hosting the meeting. The UK holds the G7 presidency for 2021. In 2020, the G7 summit was cancelled for the first time as a result of the Covid-19 pandemic.
- Recently, Build Back Better World partnership was launched by the G-7 countries. It aims to address the infrastructure investment deficit in developing and lower-income countries.

The Convention is the most comprehensive multilateral instrument available for all forms of tax co-operation to tackle tax evasion and avoidance.
- The Convention facilitates international co-operation for a better operation of national tax laws, while respecting the fundamental rights of taxpayers. It provides for all possible forms of administrative co-operation between states in the assessment and collection of taxes. This cooperation ranges from exchange of information, including automatic exchanges, to the recovery of foreign tax claims.

- Since 2009, the G20 has consistently encouraged countries to sign the Convention including most recently at the G20 summit in Buenos Aires in 2018 where the communique stated "All jurisdictions should sign and ratify the multilateral Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters."
- 144 jurisdictions currently participate in the Convention, including 17 jurisdictions covered by territorial extension. This represents a wide range of countries including all G20 countries, all BRICS, all OECD countries, major financial centres and an increasing number of developing countries
- India signed The Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters in 2012.

- Statement 1 is correct : The state executive (Articles 153 to 167 in Part VI) consists of the governor, the chief minister, the council of ministers and the advocate general of the state. The governor is the chief executive head of the state. But, like the president, he is a nominal executive head. Usually, there is a governor for each state, but the 7th Constitutional Amendment Act of 1956 facilitated the appointment of the same person as a governor for two or more states.
- Statement 2 is correct : He is appointed by the president. He is a nominee of the Central government. But, it is an independent constitutional office and is not under the control of or subordinate to the Central government. The Constitution lays down only two qualifications for the appointment of a person as a governor. These are:

- He should be a citizen of India.
- He should have completed the age of 35 years.
- Statement 3 is incorrect : Every ordinary bill, after it is passed by the state legislature, is presented to the governor for his assent. He has four alternatives:
 - He may give his assent to the bill, the bill then becomes an act.
 - He may withhold his assent to the bill, the bill then ends and does not become an act.
 - He may return the bill for reconsideration of the House or Houses. If the bill is passed by the House or Houses again with or without amendments and presented to the governor for his assent, the governor must give his assent to the bill.
 - He may reserve the bill for the consideration of the President.
- When the governor reserves a bill for the consideration of the President, he will not have any further role in the enactment of the bill. If the bill is returned by the President for the reconsideration of the House or Houses and is passed again, the bill must be presented again for the presidential assent only.

Coral Reefs

- Corals are a tiny animal that has a symbiotic relationship with an algae called "Zooxanthellae".
- The coral polyps live on the calcium carbonate exoskeletons of their ancestors. Coral reefs are built up of layers of such remaining skeletons covered by living polyps. The Zooxanthellae algae assists the coral in nutrition by providing it with fixed carbon compounds through photosynthesis.

Types of coral reefs

- Fringing reef (Shore reef) : They are located very close to land, and often form a shallow lagoon between the beach and the main body of the reef. They are the most common of the three major types of reefs.
- Barrier reef : They are largest in size and extends as a broken, irregular ring around the coast or an island, running almost parallel to it.
- Atolls : A true atoll is a circular reef enclosing a lagoon with no island. They are most common in the Pacific Ocean. A large number of atoll islands also occur in Lakshadweep.

Ideal conditions for growth

- Warm tropical waters (30 degree North/South) having temperature 18 to 20 degree Celsius and narrow temperature ranges are ideal conditions for their growth.
- They require calm sea water conditions and are usually found near warm ocean currents.

Coral Bleaching

- Coral reef bleaching is a common stress response of corals to many of the various disturbances.
- When corals are stressed by changes in conditions corals will expel the algae (zooxanthellae) living in their tissues causing the coral to turn completely white.
- Natural disturbances which cause damage to coral reefs include violent storms, flooding, high and low temperature extremes, El Nino Southern Oscillation (ENSO) events, sub aerial exposures, predatory outbreaks and epizootics. Apart from these destructive fishing practices, sedimentation and pollution also causes coral bleaching.

 1. the elected members of both the Houses of Parliament;
 2. the elected members of the legislative assemblies of the states; and
 3. the elected members of the legislative assemblies of the Union Territories of Delhi and Puducherry.

- The nominated members of both Houses of Parliament, the nominated members of legislative assemblies, the members of state legislative councils do not participate in the election of the President.
- The Vice-President is elected by the members of an electoral college consisting of the members of both Houses of Parliament only and members of state legislative assemblies and state legislative councils do not participate.
- Statement 2 is incorrect: The oath of office to the President is administered by the Chief Justice of India and in his absence, the senior-most judge of the Supreme Court available. The oath of office to the Vice-President is administered by the President or some person appointed on that behalf by him.
- Statement 3 is incorrect: The President can be removed from office by a process of impeachment for 'violation of the Constitution'. However, the Constitution does not define the meaning of the phrase 'violation of the Constitution'. No ground has been mentioned in the Constitution for his removal of Vice-President.

Extra Edge by OnlyIAS:

Removal (Impeachment) of President:

The impeachment charges (signed by one-fourth members of the house) can be initiated by either House of Parliament and 14 days' notice should be given to the President. After the impeachment resolution is passed by a majority of two-thirds of the total membership of that House, it is sent to the other House, which should investigate the charges. The President has the right to appear and to be represented at such an investigation. If the other House also sustains the charges and passes the impeachment resolution by a majority of two-thirds of the total membership, then the President stands removed from his office.

Removal of Vice-President:

He can be removed by a resolution passed by a majority of all the then members (effective majority) of the Rajya Sabha and agreed to (simple majority) by the Lok Sabha. No such resolution can be moved unless at least 14 days' advance notice has been given to the Vice-President.
